Invitation

Women in Science roundtable discussion, ATHENA
European University and International Relations Office
Hellenic Mediterranean University

To raise awareness and start a discussion about gender equality at the ATHENA European University, the International Relations Office of the Hellenic Mediterranean University organizes a Women in Science round table discussion. The event will take place through the zoom platform on the 8th of March (Woman's Day), starting at 1000 CET (1100 Athens Time). Seven distinguished female scientists from Sweden, Denmark, France, Spain, Slovenia, Greece and Israel will discuss with us the challenges they have faced during their professional development in sciences and their proposals for making smaller the gender gap in Academia. Finally, responsible staff from the Universidad Complutense de Madrid in Spain will present the Gender Equality Unit that was established in their facilities and how it has contributed to improve gender equality within their Institution.

The panelists confirmed are the following:

- Ellen Moons, Professor of Physics, Karlstad University, Sweden
- Evangelia Triantafyllou, Assistant Professor, Aalborg University, Denmark
- Anne Friederike Delouis, Associate Professor, Vice Rector, University of Orleans, France
