Innovative Structural Engineering for Visionary Projects

Design the future with us!

schlaich bergermann partner is an international engineering office with over 300 members in Stuttgart, Berlin, New York, São Paulo, Shanghai, Paris, Madrid, Los Angeles, Riyadh, Hamburg, Melbourne, Bath, and London. As independent consulting engineers, we design sustainable, sophisticated, and elegant structures all over the world. These range from long-span, lightweight roof structures, versatile bridges, slender towers, innovative high-rise buildings, to pioneering solar power plants.

Driven by a deep commitment to Baukultur, our projects are characterized by lightness, resource efficiency, and a pursuit of outstanding design quality.

You can experience these values firsthand with us and actively implement them in challenging projects. We believe that those who are given the opportunity to take on respon-sibility early and become part of a motivated and inspiring working environment will not only develop their technical skills in a truly meaningful way but also gain the courage to design with impact.

Explore your opportunities already during your studies and become part of our team!

Join one of our international teams as a working student or intern for a minimum of five months at our offices in Stuttgart, Berlin, Hamburg, Paris, Madrid, and New York and contribute to exciting and real projects.

We invite you to take the opportunity to learn from experienced structural engineers and gain hands-on experience as initial ideas are transformed into actual building projects. Deepen your technical knowledge and acquire valuable practical skills using modern planning tools. Our corporate culture is built on open exchange and active knowledge transfer—benefits that will support your growth well beyond your own project work.

What Makes You a Great Fit

Excellent academic achievements, a genuine passion for structural engineering and the desire to shape the future of construction. Ideally, you have already completed your 5th semester.

Apply now—we look forward to hearing from you!

Please send us your complete application documents to jobs@sbp.de.
